CAMINETTI HAD A

STRENUOUS TIME.

Tried to Make Political Capital Out Of Asiatic Exclusion League, And Was Called Down.

A. Caminetti, democratic politician, and state senator representing the district comprising Amador, El Dorado, Calaveras, Alpine and Mono, had a lively time in San Francisco on Sunday afternoon last. A meeting of the Asiatic exclusion league was being held. This league is a nonpartisan organization for the purpose of aiding the sentiment of the exclusion of Asiatics from America. Its members are made up from all parties. Party politics are tabooed at its meetings. No political party favors the immigration of Asiatics to this country. At the meeting Sunday A. O. Tveitmo, a labor union official, was chairman. Caminetti was present, and was invited to address the assembly, although not a member of the league. It was a courtesy extended to a visitor, and he was expected to give a history of the Chinese and Japanese exclusion question, from a strictly nonpartisan standpoint. But he is too much of a partisan to keep in any such path. In brief space he was launching into a furious tirade against the republican party, and its candidates, endeavoring to create a sentiment so as to commit the members to the democratic presidential ticket. As soon as it was apparent what he was after, there were loud and persistent howls of protest and dissent. The chairman, who was in sympathy with the movement to land the league in the democratic camp, refused to heed the protest, and let Caminetti proceed with his ill-advised harangue. At the close of his address Andrew Fureseth, another labor agitator, introduced the following resolution: "That the Asiatic exclusion league urge upon the people of this coast and elsewhere to vote in this election for the democratic nominees."

Fureseth and others on the inside urged immediate action. There was a stormy time, Caminetti falling heir to some very uncomplimentary remarks for his conduct. G. B. Benham answered Caminetti, declaring that, like most democrats, he had made a great deal of noise at an inopportune moment, and by talking until the meeting was ready to adjourn had hoped to win his point without being answered. Benham then took up Caminetti's speech and proceeded to tear it to shreds.

The proposition of converting the league into a propaganda for Bryan failed. Action on the resolution being postponed until the following Sunday. Such attempts to swing voters for democracy only hurt the cause they are intended to help, and the advocates of such proceedings lower themselves in public opinion by pursuing such tactics. It is very improbable that the resolution will pass after the lime-light has been turned full upon the subject. It was a boldly conceived scheme, of doubtful value in any event. Even success in passing the motion would doubtless have defeated its object, and landed more voters for Taft than for Bryan.

The Chronicle's account of the session says:

James H. Grabame, the statistician of the league, was upon his feet, hurling the lie at Caminetti. Before Tveitmo was able to restore order Grabame had denounced Caminetti repeatedly as a wilful and malicious liar, and the meeting was in an uproar, during which one woman delegate and several men hurriedly left the hall.

When order was restored Caminetti resumed, in a milder tone, and tried to justify his attacks upon men and measures. He was permitted to conclude his address. When he stopped talking Secretary Yoell asked Caminetti some embarrassing questions as to his action in relation to exclusion legislation.

Caminetti tried to extricate himself from his predicament, when Grabame obtained the floor and asked some more pointed questions, which completely cornered Caminetti.

When Grabame desisted other delegates had questions to ask of the discomfited senator, who was wiggling like an eel.

Instead of replying to the questions asked, Caminetti sought subterfuge behind evasive answers, not germane to the questions propounded, and made a pitiable spectacle.

Yoell hinted that the entire proceeding, Caminetti's appearance upon the floor of the convention, was a scheme to convert the meeting of the Exclusion League into a democratic campaign meeting, and made Caminetti admit that he had declined seven invitations from the league during the last four years.

VOTE FOR BURROW.

The people of this township in the candidacy of T. J. Burrow for supervisor, are afforded an excellent opportunity of promoting the interests, not only of this particular supervisor district, but of the county at large. One of the leading issues before the taxpayers today is the breaking up of the reigning clique, who seem to imagine they have the right to run the county to suit themselves instead of those whose servants they are. John Strohm, who has been supervisor for the past term, is a good-meaning man, but few will dispute that he lacks weight as a representative in the governing body of Amador county. We want a man that not only has the courage of his convictions, but also the ability to express his views wherever the emergency arises to demand it. Burrow is that kind of a man. He is no man's man. He will do what he thinks is right, and furthermore, if he thinks things are going wrong he will speak out in the meetings. That is the kind of man that is wanted just now. The people of the district must remember that a supervisor is entitled to no credit for the mere act of spending money on the roads. The same amount will be available for road purpose whether Strohm or Burrow is elected. And the residents of this district will be beneficiaries of this expenditure in either case. It is no argument to say that if a bad place is reported on any road, the supervisor gives instructions to some neighbor of the vicinity to have it attended to. Burrow can give the same orders just as well as Strohm. The necessity of having some one on the board to press the claims of this district has been signally illustrated the past two years by the absence of a bridge across Jackson creek near the Ellis place, some six miles below town. That a bridge is urgent there is admitted. The order was given two years ago, and one-half of the old bridge at Sutter Creek was moved onto the ground, and it lies there today, useless. A forceful representative from this township on the board would have had the bridge erected there long ago. How much longer that section will continue without bridge facilities under existing circumstances is a conundrum. Put Burrow on the board of supervisors, and thereby impart business energy, and strict economy to that body. Township No. 1 needs such a man, and Amador county will benefit by his election. It will be one important step toward getting out of the old ruts over which Amador has been jolting so long, to the jolting of the taxpayers. Remember that every ringster of the democratic regime is working, quietly or openly for Strohm. That of itself should be the cue for the patrons of good government to get on the other side.

"While in the army in 1863, I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M. Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief, until Mr. A. W. Came Near Dying

By Overdose of Bromidia.

W. T. Coleman, who was so badly burned near Plymouth by rolling into a fire of his own creating while on a drunken spree, as narrated in these columns, had a second close call to death at the county hospital. He has suffered great pain on account of the burns. On Tuesday night to induce sleep he drank a quantity of bromidia, taking doses through the night. In all he swallowed about three ounces. Such a quantity if taken at once would inevitably have put him to sleep for keeps, as it was he was brought so close to passing out of life's portals, that the attendants were long doubtful of the issue. At last accounts he was improving, but not entirely out of danger. The injuries received by contact with the flames have impaired his recuperative powers. However, it is believed that he will pull through.

Property Redeemed.

H. E. Potter and L. Griffith of Plymouth, were here last Tuesday on business relating to the estate of E. S. Potter. J. C. Jenkins, who had an interest in the mining land known as the Creek claim, has redeemed that property, paying something like $1400 therefor. The property was offered for sale by the administrator, and by him bought in for $1000 with interest and costs. This has been the main obstacle in closing up the estate. The redemption period had to expire before the estate could get title thereto. It is expected that the final account will be made out in a few days, and everything wound up.

A Battery Case.

Chris Lepava, an Austrian, was arrested on the 20th instant on a charge of battery preferred by Agostino Mori. Both parties are employed at the Kennedy mine, and from the reports which are current the ill-feeling which culminated in the assault originated while at their underground employment. On the 19th after the men quit, Mori was on his way to town, and on the road was attacked by Lepava, who with several other companions appeared to be waiting for that purpose. Mori was not alone, but the one or two with him were outnumbered by the other side. Mori was badly beaten up. He swore out a complaint, and Lepava was arrested the following day, and taken before Justice Goldner. He pleaded not guilty, and was released on bonds of $300 for his appearance at trial, with R. Rognie and L. Radonich as sureties. The affair has been the subject of much talk, some looking upon it as the outcome of a feud between the Austrian and Italian element. But this is improbable. The assault was doubtless the result of a squabble between the principals, and meant nothing more.

Keith's Moving Picture Show.

Lawrence Keith opened up the Novelty Theatre, in a portion of Webb building on Saturday last. Owing to the scarcity of electric power on account of the shortage of water, he was not able to show the dissolving attachment. The moving pictures were very good, and came out with great distinction. There was none of that flickering, which is so hurtful to the eyes, which is characteristic of some exhibitions in the motion picture line. The graphophone and the illustrated songs were excellent. An entire change of program is made Monday, Wednesday and Saturdays. Commencing Saturday, the proprietor will have four reels, instead of three, making over an hour's performance for 10 cents, 5 cents for children. Everybody should visit this show. It is the best in town. The seats are more comfortable, the place is cosy and warm, and it is just the place to spend an enjoyable evening at little expense. The management contemplates adding new features, which will be announced hereafter.

Commencing tomorrow night the manager will give tickets to all patrons entitling them to a chance in a prize drawing for $5 and $2 in cash.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

FRIDAY..... OCTOBER 23, 1908

A FALSE PROPOSITION.

Democratic papers and orators are making a great effort to capture the labor vote, claiming that their party is more devoted to the interest of the working classes, and will accomplish more for them if placed in power than their opponents. Bryan himself is singing this song for all there is in it, promising if elected to have a cabinet officer specially to look after the hosts of labor. He realizes that all his hopes of capturing the presidency depend upon his drawing support from workingmen who have heretofore supported the republican party. Failure to entice them from their former allegiance spells defeat in unmistakable characters. The workingmen as a rule are not easily fooled. Democratic tactics in this direction are in the nature of a dernier resort. The claims of the democratic party as the devotee of the labor element will not bear investigation. Statistics go to prove that states under republican control have enacted far more measures for the amelioration of the condition of workingmen than those under democratic administration. The condition of the sons of toil are immeasurably better in the republican North than in the democratic South. Wages are higher as a rule, and hours of employment are better regulated under republican guidance. When did democratic ascendancy in national affairs inaugurate a millennial era for the toiling masses? Certainly not within the memory of any living man. On the contrary, it is recent history that Coxe armies of unemployed besieged the White House under the Cleveland democratic regime demanding work or bread. This is the latest achievement of democracy in behalf of working men from a national standpoint. A party, like an individual, must be judged by its record. That is the only safe criterion of judgment. Promises count for little against actual accomplishments.

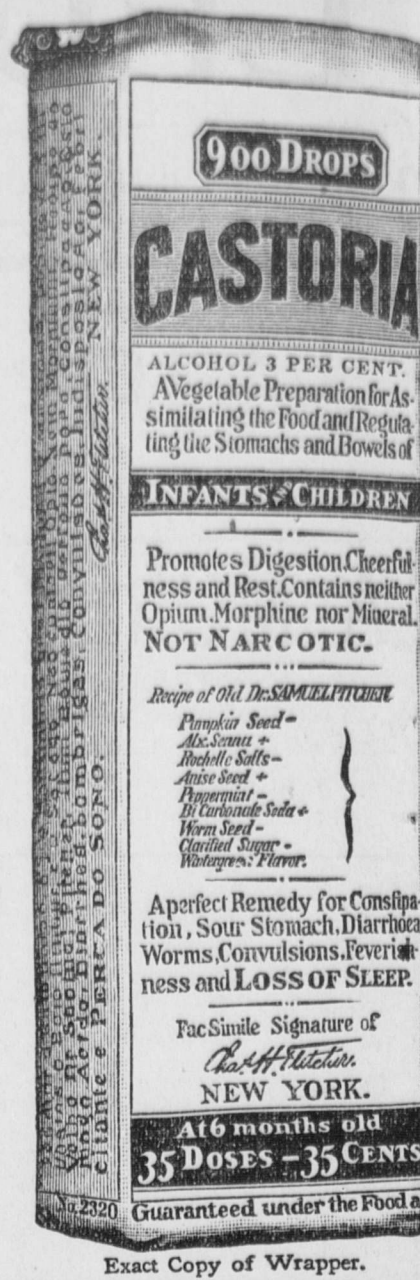

Coming down to a comparison between republican and democratic states, carefully compiled statistics of labor laws in force as late as April, 1904, show some startling results. The statistics embrace 28 states under republican control, and 17 states where the democratic party holds the reins of government, and control legislation. These statistics reveal the following state of affairs as regards laws in force for the benefit of labor:

	Republican states.	Democratic states.
Bureau of labor	23	10
Inspection of factories	1	3
State boards of arbitration	11	4
Free employment bureau	12	2
Inspection of mines	15	9
Eight-hour law	16	5
Child labor age limit in factories	21	10
Women's work regulated	22	5
Seats for women	23	8
Truck system prohibited	14	9
Sweating system regulated	11	1

From these figures it should require no further argument to convince any intelligent voter as to which of the two great parties has been the more alert in passing wholesome laws for the improvement of the working classes. The anti-injunction scheme, fathered by Bryan, and upon which he is largely banking to attract the labor organizations, would in practice prove the most harmful to the hosts of labor of all the visionary methods preached by Bryan. It would shake the confidence of manufacturers in the power of the courts to afford them just protection, and as a result would tend to curtail industry, thereby throwing large numbers of wage earners out of employment. If the laboring men do not want a recurrence of the days of Coxe's armies on the tramp they will taboo Bryan and his fads at the ballot box.

Mr. Taft calls Mr. Bryan's speech-making "an oratory of fancy." Only few years ago colonel Watterson called it an oratory of infancy.

Bryan say he stands by his record. He should stand close or it will fall over and smash him.

CLEANING A CLOCK.

It is Not Very Difficult, According to These Directions.

It is very simple to clean a clock, which may sound rather absurd. For an amateur it is not always necessary to take the clock to pieces. With a little care and patience and using some benzine, a clean white rag, a sable brush and some oil a clock can be cleaned and put in first class running order. The benzine should be clean and free from oil. You can test benzine by putting a little on the back of the hand. If it is good, it will dry off, leaving the hand quite clean, but if any grease remains on the hand it is not fit to use.

The oil should be of the very best that can be procured. Vegetable oils should never be used. Clock oil can be procured from your druggist or jeweler.

All loose dirt should be removed from the works by blowing with bellows or a fan or dusting with a dry brush. In the latter case great care should be exercised not to injure any of the parts. Dip the brush in the benzine and clean the spindles and spindle holes and the teeth of the escapement wheel. After washing a part wipe the brush on the rag and rinse in the benzine. This should be repeated frequently until no more dirt is seen.

When the clock has dried oil the spindle holes carefully. This may be done with a toothpick or a sliver of wood cut to a fine point. Oil the tooth of the escapement wheel slightly, using a fine brush.—Popular Mechanics.

LOWESTOFT CHINA.

Story of a Factory Whose Products Are Now Highly Prized.

At the end of the North parade, Lowestoft, is the Warren House, a place of great interest to connoisseurs of china. It was here, in the eighteenth century, that a discovery of fine clay was made which eventually led to Lowestoft manufacturing the china which is now so rare that it is almost priceless.

Initial experiments made by Hewlin Luson, Esq., of Gunton Park, near Lowestoft, with some fine clay discovered accidentally on his estate resulted in complete success and ultimately led to the opening of a factory at Lowestoft in 1756 for the manufacture of fine earthenware and porcelain "soft paste."

In 1775 a finely glazed and decorated "hard paste" was introduced, the efficiency and beauty of which betokened a brilliant success for the proprietors. Contemporary evidence indisputably shows that from 1770 to 1800 the Lowestoft works were at the zenith of their fame. Owing, however, to the enormous expenses and difficulty incurred in procuring china clay from Cornwall and elsewhere (after the original clay was exhausted) and the rapidly increasing competition of other makers its prosperity waned, the collapse came, and the works were closed in 1803.—London Globe.

Clerical Clothes In New York.

"Today I encountered a whim of New York tailors that astonished me," said a western clergyman. "I ordered a suit of clothes from a man who refused to work for me."

"What's the reason you folks are passing me along to another tailor?" I asked. "Do I look hard to fit? Are you afraid you won't get your money?" "The tailor explained that neither of my guesses was correct. He declined to make my clothes simply because I am a clergyman and require a clerical cut. He let me down easily by stating further that he never undertook to make ecclesiastical garments, that very few of the lay tailors in New York do undertake them. They do not have enough of that kind of work to keep them constantly informed on the requirements of the different religious orders. A mistake would be embarrassing to the clergymen and to the tailor, so they hand all such customers over to tailors who make a specialty of such work."—New York Sun.

When Sleep Was Tramped.

A bridge playing set at an eastern university, who usually turned night into day, used to appear at morning chapel with remarkable regularity and were pointed out as an example by the authorities. An alteration was made in the time, chapel not beginning until thirty minutes later, and the dean was astounded to see that none of these men, so regular before, was present. He sent for them and asked the reason.

"Well, sir," said one, "it's like this: When chapel was at half past 7 we could just manage it, but we can't keep awake till 8 o'clock."—Harper's Weekly.

On Ice.

"Yes," said Alkali Ike, "a couple o' cow punchers indulged in a very pretty scientific scrap down at Bad Bucko's yesterday."

"It's wonderful how cool those fellows keep under the circumstances," remarked the eastern tourist.

"Yaas; they certainly have to be kept cool, stranger. I believe, for some reason or other, their funerals ain't to be for a couple o' days yet."—Philadelphia Press.

Certainly Would.

Gifford, deceased, and for hearing the application of Lillie A. Payton, for the issuance to her of letters testamentary, when and where any person interested may appear and contest the same.

How a Girl Throws.

Perhaps a better title would have been "How a Girl Doesn't Throw," because it is well known that a girl cannot propel a ball or anything else like a boy. Most people—and all boys—conclude that this defect arises from clumsiness, but that is a mistake.

The difference between a girl's throwing and a boy's is substantially this:

The boy crooks his elbow and reaches back, with the upper part of his arm about at a right angle of forty-five degrees. The direct act of throwing is accomplished by bringing the arm back with a sort of snap, working every joint from shoulder to wrist.

The girl throws with her whole arm rigid, the boy with his whole arm relaxed. Why this marked and unmistakable difference exists may be explained by the fact that the clavicle or collar bone in the feminine anatomy is some inches longer and set some degrees lower down than in the masculine frame. The long, crooked, awkward bone interferes with the full and free use of the arm. This is the reason why a girl cannot throw a stone.

First Victory of the Revolution.

The importance of the assault upon Fort William and Mary is generally overlooked by historians. The demonstrations against various British armed vessels, beginning with the firing upon the schooner St. John in July, 1764, as well as the battle of Alamance, in North Carolina, in 1771, were essentially local and were so far removed from the Revolutionary period that they produced no appreciable effect upon the war itself. The "Boston massacre" was the repulse of a mob by a squad of British regulars, but at Fort William and Mary the royal standard was lowered for the first time, and the gunpowder taken therefrom was burned by the patriots at Bunker Hill. The king recognized in the daring assault the inevitability of the impending struggle. There is truth in the claim set forth on the tablet on the old Fort Constitution of today that the site marks "the first victory of the American Revolution."—Army and Navy Life.

A Pretty Warm Fish.

A well known fisherman was fishing for perch and was seated along the edge of a lake near the roots of a large tree, which was a favorite spot for the perch. Luck had been only fair, and he was debating on the question of hauling in the line and going home when there came a powerful tug.

He knew that he had a huge fish and struggled vigorously for twenty minutes before he landed his prize. It was a sunfish, one of the largest he had ever seen. He landed it on the bank, and then he noticed that the rays from the fish were so powerful that he was almost blinded, and the grass in the vicinity was shriveled up by the heat.

A few minutes later the man fell over. He had been sunstruck by the sunfish and was beyond hope.—Philadelphia American.

Startling.

A gentleman opened a letter addressed to his son containing suggestions from a friend to the latter for a novel which he (the son) was privately writing. The father was exceedingly surprised and frightened upon reading the following dreadful words:

Dear Bob—You really must show more caution in constructing your plots, or the governor will be sure to discover the dead body of Geraldine in the cellar, and then your secret will be out. You consulted me about the strychnine. I certainly think you are giving it him in rather large doses. Let Emily put her mother in a madhouse. It will answer your purpose well to have the old girl out of the way. I think your forgery is far too small a sum. Make it three thousand. Leave the rest of your particularly nice family circle to me. I will finish them off and send you back the "fatal dagger" afterward by post. Yours, JACK.

Burning Heretics.

The following items, copied from the municipal records of Canterbury by an English magazine, show that the burning of heretics in 1535, the time of the gonial King Henry VIII, was an inexpensive amusement:

For wood to burn him..... 2s. 6d.

Inspiring Hope.

The Doctor—Bear up. I must tell you the worst—you can't possibly recover. The Client—That's a pity, for if I'd lived a bit longer I should have come into a fortune. As it is, I haven't a penny to pay you with, doctor. The Doctor—Well, now, don't give up hope. We'll try to mend you. We'll try.—Illustrated Bits.

As to Stage Fright.

"Stage fright" is surely among the most mysterious of sudden seizures. It begins when the actor or speaker thinks "they are not interested in me." It ends when he determines "I will interest them."—London Chronicle.

Her Preference.

"I want to make a gift to Miss Passy," said Dumley. "I wonder what sort of animal she'd prefer for a pet?" "A man," promptly suggested Miss Knox.—Philadelphia Press.

DON'T HIDE YOUR MONEY

The man who hides his money because he assumes to be afraid of banks forgets that it was the bank that perhaps made the prosperity possible which gave him his money making opportunities. Without the bank there would be no large commercial or business enterprises possible, salaries and wages would be low, and money making impossible. It is the bank in the exercise of its function in gathering together the funds of a community and putting them into active use that has brought prosperity.

To hide money is the hinder and hurt prosperity by restricting the circulation of money. Bring your money to the bank.

Henry Frank, aged 16, who pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary in the second degree, was sentenced this morning by Judge Ogden to spend the remainder of his minority at the Preston School of Industry at Ione. The boy's father, a ship carpenter, was ordered to pay $11 a month for the care of the boy.—Oakland Enquirer.

Amber Meek, while working about his father's place on Monday, had a fall from the roof, but was lucky enough to escape with a few bruises. He was able to return to work the next day.

Miss Mildred Smith, who has been employed as stenographer in W. J. McGee's office for several years, has resigned her position. She left for San Francisco last week on a visit. Her place has been taken by Miss Emma Parrow, of Sutter Creek, a young lady who has recently graduated in stenography from a business college. She has been in the office of W. G. Snyder, but as the latter has moved into quarters adjoining McGee's, the stenographer will be able to do the work for both lawyers.

Mrs. Lena Spagnoli, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Marre left for San Francisco Sunday morning, for a couple of weeks' visit. The first named will also visit relatives in San Jose before she returns home.

D. B. Spagnoli a few days ago received a directory of the practitioners of law in San Francisco. It contains 1152 names. This is an average of one attorney for every 300 inhabitants.

Last Sunday the baseball players of Jackson intended to go to Camanche, to play a return game with the players of that town. They did not go on account of the serious illness of the mother of George Miller, one of the team. Also Woolfork, another of the players had a sprained ankle, and was unable to go. So a message was sent to the Camanche boys that the Jackson team would be unable to keep the engagement. It is not likely that any more games will be played this season.

Urban Spagnoli came up from Oakland Tuesday on a two week's vacation.

W. J. McGee, the attorney, has made arrangements with W. G. Snyder to attend to his business here during his absence.

The street lights were turned on again last Monday, and have been on every night since. A shortage of water for power purposes is no longer feared. There is considerable water in the Mokelumne river. No doubt some of the snow that fell in the mountains during the storm melts under the warm sunshine, and feeds the small streams tributary to the Mokelumne river, and so reinforces the water supply at the head of the canal.

James Morrow and family moved from the Gwin mine to Jackson last Wednesday, occupying one of the dwelling houses on the Webb and Mason tract belonging to H. E. Stowers.

W. J. Nettie, foreman of the Argonaut, was taken with a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism on Wednesday, and has been confined to his bed for the past two days. He returned to his employment at the mine after the attack of a couple of weeks ago until this second attack seized him.

There was twelve inches of snow on the Plasse range in Alpine county, when they left there the latter part of last week. After the first snowfall, the cattle become impatient to get out. In fact, they start out of their own accord; and it is next to impossible to hold them in the mountains when the usual time for migrating to the lower altitudes arrives. All the stock are in fine condition for stock cattle.

LOST.—In Jackson, Friday evening, Oct. 16, a lady's gold watch, with initials "A. S. H." engraved thereon. Finder will be suitably rewarded by delivering same to Mrs. Delahide's millinery parlors, in the Webb building.

Mrs. Guerra is offering her household furniture for sale and preparing to move to San Francisco, to be with her two grown up daughters. She has been keeping a boarding house on the Jackson Gate road, but finds the work becoming too arduous for her. She will take the young Holder children with her to the city.

W. H. Glenn was down from Defender district yesterday. He is putting the finishing touches on the new eight-roomed house he has built, which is one of the finest in the mountains. In company with Mrs. Glenn and daughter, he was here to buy furniture and interior fittings for the new house.

Mrs. Depew, in descending the stairway into the cellar at the residence of G. M. Blair on Court street on the 15th instant, slipped and fell, receiving painful bruises about the limbs and arms. She has been under the care of Dr. Gall since the accident, but is getting along nicely toward recovery.

C. C. Jensen, the well-known expert optician, will be in Jackson the end of this month. As his visit this time will be short, all parties desiring to have glasses fitted to their sight will please leave orders at Langhorst's jewelry store.

Kirkwood's cattle got down from the mountains Sunday. It was storming fiercely in the high altitudes before they started. Considerable snow fell during the late storm, and the weather was very cold. All the cattle men are now out with their stock.

Friday evening an Austrian miner named Berberovich, employed in the Kennedy, struck his hand against the edge of a sharp ax, splitting open the second finger of the left hand, and exposing the tendon, which however was not severed. Dr. Sprague was called to attend the case. The patient will have to take a lay off of a couple of weeks.

Harry Staiger, a 12 year old boy, came up Saturday from San Francisco, accompanying his half sister, four years old, to Jackson on a visit to James Mortimer, where the little girl will make her home. The boy returned to the city alone Tuesday, to resume his schooling.

B. F. Taylor was around early in the week doing some light work at the Zeila mill. He has made wonderful progress toward recovery, considering the nature of injuries received by the fall at the Amador Queen. It appears that when the rickety frame work gave way, he pitched squarely on his head, the force of the fall fracturing one of the vertebrae of the neck, without injuring the spinal column.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKING.

Our congressman, Hon. W. F. Englebright, will address the people of Jackson in Love's hall tomorrow evening. Voters regardless of party, should make it a point to hear him. He will give an account of what he has done for this district. He has proved one of the most vigilant and influential congressmen ever sent from the Pacific coast. He will be accompanied by Hon. E. M. Wolfe of San Francisco, an entertaining and eloquent speaker.

A Huge Ballot.

We have received a sample copy of the ballot to be voted at the forthcoming election. It is from the secretary of state, and of course does not include the local candidates. It is sent to the county clerk as a guide in making up the official ballot. It is the most formidable document of the kind ever presented to the voters of this state. There are two columns devoted to proposed amendments and acts to be voted upon. These propositions are too intricate to be solved by the average voter, and most of them will be let severely alone. To study out these propositions would require many days of mental toil by men of more than ordinary intelligence. Two that are easily under is the repeal of the mortgage tax, which is Amendment 26, also Amendment 31 to allow corporations to extend their existence. These should be voted for. And the act to remove the seat of government from Sacramento to Berkeley should be voted No.

Dr. L. E. Phillips moved to Palo Alto last Monday, and commenced the practice of medicine and surgery in that city.

An Italian at the Kennedy had a pair of new boots stolen early this week while employed in the mine. A number of petty thefts have been perpetrated against the underground workers recently.

James Hicks was bruised up by a slight fall of debris in the Kennedy mine Friday. He was able to go to work again Tuesday.

An old miner, Jos. Boitano was struck in the head by a rock while at work in the Zeila mine Monday, causing a scalp wound which required a number of stitches to close. Dr. Gall had charge of the case. He is not seriously hurt, and will be able to resume work in a few days.

Max Widasky, who was here during the sale of the McCutchen stock, and who is now located in Placerville, was in Jackson Saturday. He came to inspect the stock of the Glavinovich store, with a view to purchase it satisfactory. He left Monday morning. The agent of the Goltzberg company made an offer which was deemed entirely too low, and was turned down. The disposal of the stock is still uncertain.

An alarm of fire was turned in yesterday afternoon. It was caused by some soot taking fire in the residence of Geo. L. Thomas over the butcher's shop. It had evidently been smoldering for many hours, as there had been no fire in the store that day. The woodwork was ignited and the smoke attracted attention of the inmates. It was put out without any damage to speak of being done, and before the firemen had time to get on the scene.

SHOULD BE ADOPTED.

To the Voters of Amador county:

In the coming election there are several constitutional amendments to be voted upon, some of which ought to be defeated and others carried, and one that ought to carry is Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 16, which provides for a fixed salary for each member of the legislature and limits the daily expenditure to five hundred dollars, and it also limits the time for the introduction of bills from sixty days to forty days, thereby giving more time for the consideration of legislation and thus providing for "less laws and better laws," and also limiting the number of days to thirty for which period only can members receive compensation during an extra session.

A similar amendment was submitted in 1905, but was defeated by a small margin. In order that the people might understand that this amendment is aimed to cure an evil that brings the legislature into disfavor each session and is in the interest of economy I herewith give the cost of the sessions of the legislature in 1905 and in 1907 as furnished me by the state controller over his signature, thereby demonstrating the saving to the people by the adoption of this amendment.

The total cost of the session of 1905 was $253,571.78. If the amendment referred to had been in force the cost would have been $195,607.10 or a net saving of $57,964.68. In addition to those figures the printing of legislative work during that session, cost $92,500.

The session of 1907 cost $265,298.52. If the amendment referred to had been in force the cost would have been $189,781.80 or a net saving of $75,516.72. In addition to those figures the printing of legislative work during that session, cost $85,300. Fifty per cent of the cost of printing could be saved by the adoption of this amendment. This would result from the limiting of the time for introduction of bills from sixty days as it now is to forty days and would prevent the duplicating of bills which is an evil that costs the state much money each session.

Not only will that result be accomplished but consideration to important legislation will be given. After the per diem ceases members become reckless and pass bills without the attention merited. Last session, after the sixtieth day on different days, bills were passed at the rate of five bills in four minutes. Such recklessness is deplorable. By limiting the daily expenditure to five hundred dollars the evil that attends every session of the legislature will be eradicated and the army of employees will be limited, as the power to expend more than five hundred dollars per day will be denied. When a stated salary is given, no longer time than necessary to earn will be consumed but every measure that merits debate will be considered and opportunity to discuss it given, a condition that does not now exist and legislatures will hereafter find better favor in public sight than heretofore.

To repeat it: Let the voter bear in mind that if this amendment had been in force in 1905, $57,964.68 would have been saved and in 1907, $75,516.72 would have been saved, or a total in two sessions of $133,481.40, and if one-half of the money expended for printing could have been saved it would be $88,900 more saved, but if only one-fourth of the printing could have been saved it would have been $44,450. It ought, therefore, to be appreciated that this amendment is also in the interest of economy.

Respectfully,
J. B. CURTIN,
Senator 12th District.

Died in the Soldier's Home.

David R. Gifford, who for several years past made his home near Defender in this county, having taken up a homestead there, died on the 10th of this month in the Soldier's Home in Los Angeles county. He went to the home about two months ago, being in rather feeble health, and having no near relatives here. He was a veteran of the civil war, having enlisted in Ohio, his native state, when quite a boy. For several years he has been working in the lumber camp, and last year was employed in El Dorado county above Placerville. He has no relatives in the State. He leaves a tract of 160 acres near Defender, which he willed to Mrs. Lee Payton, of Defender, who is a distant relative of his. The remains were interred in the cemetery of the Soldiers Home.

Thursday morning as Mrs. Arthur I. Prouty, who teaches the school at the Mountain Spring house, was driving to school, she met with an accident, which might have proven serious, but fortunately, she escaped with only a few bruises. When near the point where the Buena Vista road joins the main road to Jackson, one of the clips on the singletree slipped off and struck the horse causing him to become unmanageable. Mrs. Prouty was able to keep him in the road but in making one of the sharp curves the buggy was overturned, and she was caught in the top. After being dragged about fifty yards, the top was wrenched from the buggy and Mrs. Prouty was freed from her dangerous position. The horse was captured at Miller's station badly bruised and cut, with the buggy very much damaged. It seems an act of providence that Mrs. Prouty was not seriously injured.—ECHO.

Yesterday evening the driver on the Placerville and Auburn stage discovered the tracks of a huge bear along the road near the historic town of Coloma. He measured the tracks and found them to be 8½x5½ inches in size, with indications of a beautiful outfit of immense claws. No report as to the outcome had been received up till 1 o'clock this afternoon. Several bears have been seen in the low foothills recently, and it is supposed that they are either following the sheep out from the mountain ranges or else have been driven out of their usual haunts by the forest fires.—Nugget.

Though there was no laceration of the flesh the ribs were crushed in over the heart causing internal hemorrhages from which death ensued in a few hours. Mr. Dickerson was a native of Ohio but served during the civil war in an Illinois regiment. He has been a respected resident of this county for many years. His age was 64 years. THE VALUE OF A SMILE.

On the door leading to the private office of the treasurer of one of the Hartford banking institutions may be seen by all comers a plain white card on which are these two words, "Keep smiling."

Ask the treasurer the significance of the placard and he will say simply, "Just keep smiling; that makes everything easy. That's what smiles are for. A good, unfeigned, sincere smile is a veritable battering ram to knock hard things out of the way. Sometimes I smile out loud, all to myself, when I run against anything hard; and the invitation is out to whoever enters my door. I take it that people will smile as they read the card, and I want them to continue the act while in here."

He tells of a visitor who came to see him last winter, a Scotchman, who had served in India in the army. "My dear sir," said the visitor, "I am greeting that legend heartily. Many years ago when the plague was raging, I was in Calcutta and sick. The hospitals were full, and, with other patients, I was lying in a shed, a very sick man. On each side of me a poor chap had died, when a man came around with one of the doctors to measure the bodies. As they finished the second fellow's measurement they looked at me, and the man said, 'Three of 'em, heigh?' and whipped out his tape measure at my side. To save my life I couldn't speak or move. All I could do was to smile, and just smiled. Instead of the measuring line I was given better attention, and recovered. The smile did it. That's right. 'Keep smiling!'"—Hartford Times.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alternative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, irritations and troubles incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines. The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

GRANTING PATENTS.

Invention as Distinguished From Mere Mechanical Skill.

A patent cannot properly be granted protecting the product of mere mechanical skill as distinguished from invention. Difficulty is frequently experienced in distinguishing between the two, and the supreme test for determining whether a particular device is the result of mechanical skill is not whether an ordinary mechanic could make the device if it were suggested to him, but whether he would make it without suggestions save those which are prompted by his skill and knowledge of his art.

For example, if a man constructs out of iron a machine which had previously been made out of wood he does not thereby become an inventor in a legal sense, because everybody knows that any constructor can build a machine out of iron instead of wood. But suppose that gunpowder had just recently been discovered and that the man who invented it had applied for and obtained a patent upon it.

He might have claimed, "I combine saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal in a certain way and produce a startling result," and it would be no answer, if an action for infringement were brought, for the infringer to say that every chemist could make the powder after he had been shown how, for, if every chemist did not have the knowledge as well as the skill, the originating of the powder constituted invention.—Exchange.

PECULIAR TREES.

They Yield Bread, Butter and Milk, Soap and Candles.

The breadfruit tree of Ceylon is very remarkable. Its fruit is baked and eaten as we eat bread and is equally good and nutritious. In Barbudu, South America, is a tree which, by piercing the trunk, produces milk, with which the inhabitants feed their children. In the interior of Africa is a tree which produces excellent butter. It resembles the American oak, and its fruit, from which the butter is prepared, is not unlike the olive. Park, the great traveler, declared that the butter surpassed any made in England from cow's milk. At Sierra Leone is the cream fruit tree, the fruit of which is quite agreeable in taste.

At Table Bay, near the Cape of Good Hope, is a small tree the berries of which make excellent candles. It is also found in the Azores. The vegetable tallow tree also grows in Sumatra, in Algeria and in China. In the island of Chusan large quantities of oil and tallow are extracted from its fruit, which is gathered in November or December, when the tree has lost all its leaves. The bark of a tree in China produces a beautiful soap. Trees of the sapindus or soap berry order also grow in the north of Africa. They are amazingly prolific, and their fruit contains about 38 per cent of caponin.

A Bachelor and a Widow.

"Bachelors," said the widow, "are the most sensitive people on earth. At any rate, the bachelors I know are. I dined with one not long ago. During the first part of the meal he seemed uneasy.

"If any of my friends see me," he said, "they will think I am dining with some other man's wife."

"Why?" I asked.

"He pointed to my wedding ring.

"Shall I take it off?" I asked.

"Would you mind?" said he.

"Not at all," I said and slipped off the ring.

"Since then when going anywhere with that bachelor or any other bachelor I save him from embarrassment by taking off my wedding ring before we start. I find they appreciate my consideration for their feelings. Now, if that isn't sensitiveness raised to the ninth power I'd like to know what it is."—New York Press.

The Flow of Rivers.

The flow of rivers, as might be supposed, is the slowest at the bottom of the water and highest at the top. The average velocity of the entire stream is found, as a rule, at about six-tenths of the depth. The friction of the bottom which retards the movement of the deepest water is much greater, relatively to the whole volume of the stream, in a shallow river than in a deep one.

Womanlike.

"In my opinion," said Jones, "a woman's club to be successful should aim at something far removed from female suffrage."

"I do not agree with you," retorted Miss Strong, with set lip. "That alone should be its object."

"Exactly, but if it aims at something else it is more likely to hit that."—Philadelphia Press.

"For example?"

"I know a man who treasures the slipper his mother used to spank him with."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Hardened Tantalum.—The Unthinkable.—Artificial Marble.—Changing the Blood's Circulation.—Gas for Small Places.—The Gun Fired Without Powder.—A File That Planes.

Tantalum, one of the rare metals now being brought into use, has many resemblances to iron, and one of these is the hardness given by a small addition of carbon. Other substances also—like aluminum, tin and titanium—have a similar effect. According to a patent of W. Von Bolton, of Charlottenburg, the added substance may vary in proportion up to one per cent or more, but with carbon a small fraction of one per cent imparts great hardness and resistance, and with increase the metal becomes brittle. With a trace of carbon, the tantalum has the hardness and tensile strength best adapted for fine wire, while a little more carbon imparts the greater hardness—though with some brittleness—needed for tools for working wood, metal and stone. A British patent by Siemens and Halske covers a process of hardening by varying small additions of oxygen, and the products range from a workable metal of much increased hardness and brittleness to a metal too hard to work but having very slight brittleness.

The topographic compass included with the apparatus of Dr. Charcot's Antarctic expedition is a novel instrument, the invention of Alphonse Berget, with which bearings can be determined accurately at a glance. A copper box, containing a mirror perforated with a peep-hole, is mounted a few inches above a little compass. On looking through the peep-hole, the mirror shows the compass-card, the precise direction of the object in sight being indicated by the index.

The human mind has limitations. An astronomer argues that space beyond our universe must contain other vast universes because an absolute void is inconceivable. But who can conceive of an infinite space filled with an infinity of universe?

A marble-like material declared to be a great advance over other artificial stone is now made from the waste slag of blast-furnaces mixed with a little lime. The slag is crushed and powdered, one-seventh part of quicklime is added, and the mass, made into a paste with water, is pressed into molds of metal. The blocks so formed, on drying, have the consistency of chalk. They are placed in iron cylinders, from which the air is pumped out and then replaced with carbonic acid, and after a few days in this gas the hydrate of lime becomes recarbonated, binding the mass into a rock of great hardness. The finished stone takes a high polish. It has been made to serve as an excellent imitation of the best lithographic stone and with suitable coloring matters it gives a variety of fine marbles.

To save a leg by making the veins do duty as arteries is the remarkable feat a professor of surgery at Constantinople has attempted, with at least temporary success. Gangrene of the limbs as a result of closing of the arteries in old age or disease is common in the East, and amputation has been the only resource. A means of avoiding the desperate remedy has been suggested by the fact that the veins are much less affected than the arteries. Greatly alarmed by the burning symptoms in his left leg, a patient whose right foot had been amputated on account of gangrene appealed to the surgeon for help, and offered to take the only chance of keeping his leg by becoming the subject of thither-to-waited experiment. The arteries of the leg were successfully joined to the veins of the foot. Healing promptly followed the operation, the blood circulated through the veins, the foot regained its warmth, and in a week since all symptoms of disease have disappeared. That rainy winds have a marked effect in consumption has been proven by 20 years of observation in Dartmoor and North Devon, Eng. The death rate from this disease is much less in the sheltered places than in exposed localities.

The liquid gas of Hermann Blau is now used by several German villages, and is claimed to solve the problem of a cheap, efficient and perfectly safe method of lighting the smallest villages by gas. In manufacturing the material, oil is distilled at a temperature lower than that by which gas is produced from coal. The by-products are saved, and the cleansed gas is compressed in cylinders, becoming liquefied, when the necessary hydrogen, methane and carbon monoxide are forced into the cylinders, and dissolve in the liquid. On release of pressure, volatilization yields a mixed gas that burns with great brilliance. The cylinders vary in capacity from a single pound—supplying lighting material for a boating or camping expedition—to a quantity sufficient for large country estates for weeks, a container of medium size carrying gas enough to light a small villa two months. The full cylinders—easily changed when emptied—are placed outside the building, the gas passing to the piping of the house through a tank regulating the pressure. In villages a small building is provided for the cylinders, and small mains distribute the gas.

The idea of the mechanical powderless gun was given by the bursting of a fly-wheel. In the gun, the bullets of lead or steel are poured into a hopper over a large revolving wheel and the centrifugal force hurls the balls from the rim of the wheel through the barrel of the gun with tremendous velocity. The gun is made of brass, resembling a meat-chopper in appearance. It is believed that a wheel driven by a 50 horse-power electric motor can discharge something like 50,000 shots per minute, and great accuracy of fire is claimed.

The circular-cut file is found to act like a hand planing tool instead of an ordinary file, and is claimed to cut two or three times as fast as a common file, and wears longer. The new file has been tested in French shops about two years.

Won Her a Diadem.

How did the French come into Sicily? A woman did it. At a festive entertainment held at a French court Beatrice, countess of Savoy and wife of Charles of Anjou, the brother of Louis IX. of France, was removed from the superior range of seats occupied by her two younger sisters, the queen of France and the queen of England. Mortified by the humiliation, she returned to her apartments and burst into tears. Upon learning the cause of her chagrin and her saying that she would be able to give up her life to confine her tresses for one hour beneath a diadem Charles embraced her affectionately and said, "Set your heart at rest, countess, for before long I will make you a greater queen than either of your sisters." So he promised her. He defeated Manfred, the last of the Norman kings, and caused Conradino, the great-grandson of the Emperor Frederick, to be mercilessly slain, he himself and Beatrice witnessing the scene. Upon the death of his brother Charles became king of Naples, thus fulfilling the cherished desire of his wife for a diadem.

The Wrist and the Arm.

The real wrist, as one might say, is the elbow joint. It is all hand, practically speaking, from that point to the tips of the fingers. When you turn your wrist it is the whole forearm that makes the twist, and every movement of the fingers is controlled by the muscles of the forearm. The power to turn the wrist to and fro at the elbow joint is possessed only by human beings and monkeys, and even the higher apes are not able to do the trick nearly as well as we can. In this movement the great biceps muscle in the upper arm is importantly concerned, its powerful action in turning the forearm outward being accountable for the fact that we are able to put so much more strength into a twist in that direction than the opposite way. Many of our most familiar tools indeed, such as the screwdriver, are made with reference to the anatomical peculiarity in question. It is for this reason and no other that all screws turn to the right.

Reed and Strout.

Thomas B. Reed served in the navy during the civil war, and in 1865 he returned to Portland to practice law. One of the strongest men at the Portland bar at the time was A. A. Strout. Before beginning the trial of a suit it was Strout's habit to inquire of every juror as to the state of his health and impress each with the idea that the lawyer was solicitous of that juror's personal welfare. Reed and Strout were constantly antagonizing each other, though they were very good friends. In nearly every case of importance Strout and Reed were on opposite sides. It was annoying indeed for the suave Strout to hear Reed drawl out before the opening of a case:

"Well, your honor, Brother Strout having finished his morning task of shaking hands with the jury, we may now, I hope, proceed with the business of the court."

Beating Women.

"If it is true that national adages give an insight into the ideas of a people," says the Berlin Radical, "women must occupy a strange position in Russia. One of these old saws runs, 'Love your wife as much as your mule,' and another tells the good man, 'Shake your wife as you would a fruit tree.' That woman is not considered frail is shown by the adage, 'You may safely beat your wife with a broom handle, for she is not made of porcelain.' Beating must be considered a wholesome pastime, to judge from the saying, 'If your wife deserves a beating in the morning, remind her of her faults by giving her another at noon.' In justification of this kind of attention the Russian says, 'The more a man beats his wife the better his meals will be.'"

The Sea Serpent Myth.

It is possible, even probable, that the sea serpent myth started in all good faith. In the southern seas grow the gigantic algae, the largest of which measure from 400 to 600 feet in length. These when rolled on the beach form enormous cables several hundred feet long and as thick as a good sized tree trunk. Such cables washed out to sea by storms may very easily have given rise to the farfamed but yet undiscovered sea serpent.—New York American.

LOCAL EDITORIAL COLUMN.

GROUNDLESS OBJECTIONS.

We are informed that exception has been taken in official circles to the article published in Ledger last week, showing that notwithstanding the exceptionally favorable conditions as regards compact territory and concentration of population within comparatively narrow limits, the tax levy in Amador county is, and has been for years past, considerably above the average throughout the state. Of course, this not a pleasing picture for the contemplation of those entrusted with the management of local affairs, and naturally there is some wiggling to explain away as far as possible the damaging facts. In the prosecution of this rather difficult task, one main point is urged, namely that the heavy floods of the winter before last caused great damage by the washing away of bridges, involving a large outlay in their restoration. We have heard this pretext for an excuse—for that is all we can call it—before. The Ledger is accused of being unfair because it did not mention this fact as an extenuating circumstance. There is absolutely nothing in this contention. Indeed, we would have been open to the charge of unfairness to other sections had we singled out Amador as entitled to consideration on this score. The floods of two winters ago were general, and caused corresponding damage and public expense in other counties. If a great disaster had befallen Amador alone, it might have furnished a complete justification for a higher tax rate than in other less afflicted sections. But we were sufferers in common, and hence the abstract comparison of the tax rate with sister counties is just as applicable for that particular year as for any ordinary season. The flood argument does not tone down the situation in the slightest degree. It is merely grasping at a straw, and serves to emphasize the straits to which some are reduced in trying to stifle public sentiment against the extortionate demands for the maintenance of the local government.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 14.

A vigorous campaign is being prosecuted in certain quarters in favor of the adoption of constitutional amendment No. 14. This amendment proposes an increase in the salaries of certain state officers. The governor's salary, if this amendment carries, will be $10,000 instead of $6,000; secretary of state, controller, treasurer and surveyor general, $5,000 each, instead of $3,000 as now. The attorney-general will get a raise of $3,000 per year—$6,000 instead of $3,000. The lieutenant-governor is to have a fixed salary of $4,000 per year. In behalf of the adoption of this amendment it is urged that the population of the state has more than doubled since the present salary schedule was adopted, while the assessed value of property has full trebled. This involves a great deal more labor on the part of state officials than formerly. Many appointed officers receive more salary than these elective officers. Many counties pay their county officials a bigger salary than some of these state officers are now receiving. All of which is no doubt true. Still it is doubtful if the measure will command the approval of a majority of the voters. The people are in no mood to vote additional pay for their servants. If they were given the opportunity they would cut down the compensation of the overpaid officials rather than boost those which appear by comparison to be underpaid. The aggregate of these proposed increases will amount to between $15,000 and $20,000 per year. The spirit of extravagance has pervaded state and county governments to such an extent that really meritorious propositions sometimes suffer in the mood of the citizens to seize every opportunity to rebuke the tendency to pile up additional burdens upon them.

The wage-earners of the country are not alarmed about the guarantee of their deposits. What they desire is the guarantee of earning those deposits, and republican policy toward American industries affords the guarantee.

It has always taken a thorough course of republican treatment to remedy the effects of a single dose of democratic cure-all.

To restrict production, as the democracy proposes, would be to hamper industry and penalize invention.

Organize labor is awake to the fact that republican victory means uncut pay-rolls on full time.

That work "overtime," for which organized labor demands extra pay, is far preferable in republican times to the half time, half pay, or no time and no pay results of the democratic blight of paralysis to American industries.
